Connecting Majors to Career

A student's major doesn't have to align with their career—there is more than one path to get there. To support that path, students can add a minor, double major or even gain a professional certificate.

We offer more than 90 majors. Some of our most applied to majors are: biological sciences, engineering, economics and accounting, communication, sociology, psychological and brain sciences, political science and Chicana studies.

Common Major to Career Paths

Here are some examples of careers students can pursue with specific majors:

Political Science	→	Government positions, education, international work, teaching, social work, law
Sociology	→	Law, criminal justice, forensic sciences, psychology, counseling
Biological Sciences	→	Doctor, veterinary, environmental studies, research, PhD

Career Services

A wide range of resources help students connect their academic experiences and career goals:

- ▶ On-Campus recruitment events and career fairs
- ▶ Internship and job listings
- ▶ Interview, resume and cover letter writing tips

Alumni Profiles

of recent graduates have either full- or part-time positions after graduation, while 9% are unemployed by choice (leaving only 7% seeking work)
